Roedd hi'n bleser gan Bl 3 a 4 cyflwyno siec o £267 i Heather o 'British Heart Foundation' yn dilyn ein diwrnod 'restart a heart' ym mis Hydref. It was a pleasure for Year 3 and 4 to present a cheque of £267 to Heather from the British Heart Foundation following our 'restart a heart' day in October!

Rhybudd / Warning

Mae hi wedi dod i'n sylw fel ysgol yn yr wythnosau diwethaf bod disgyblion yn defnyddio yr app 'Houseparty' adref. Mae gennym bryderon fel ysgol am yr app yma. A wnewch chi sicrhau eich bod yn monitro defnydd eich plentyn o unrhyw blatform cyfathrebu cymdeithasol os gwelwch yn dda. Isod mae gwybodaeth defnyddiol i chi fel rhieni/gwarchodwyr am yr app.

It has come to our attention as a school that some pupils are using the app 'Houseparty' at home. As a school we have concerns regarding this app. Please ensure the close monitoring of your child as they use any form of social media platform to communicate with others. Below is some useful information for you as parents/ guardians regarding the app.

What is 'Houseparty'?

Houseparty is a private video chat app available on iOS, Android, and Mac OS. The app's primary purpose is group video chatting, although users can also send text messages through the app.

Concerns regarding Houseparty's advertising and messaging

Houseparty now has over 20 million users, 60 percent of which are between the ages of 16 and 24. Although Houseparty's advertising appears to only feature individuals in their 20s, the app is distinctly popular among those under the age of 18. The app allows users as young as 13 to sign up for an account and does little to prevent those younger than 13 from falsifying their age to sign up.

Houseparty also subtly includes imagery and phrasing that could be construed to be encouraging illicit behaviours.

For example, the service features imagery on its homepage of a group video chat with a man connecting in with friends while he is presumably naked in a bathtub.

Additionally, messaging in the app appears to encourage somewhat antisocial behaviour, such as "ghosting", and also appears to encourage communicating with strangers. Under "House Rules" for example, Houseparty advertises a feature call "Stranger Danger", which alerts users when individuals they may not know, enter their room. It warns against strangers, but also suggests strangers might be a reason for "party time!"

None of these items indicate that Houseparty is intentionally encouraging illicit behaviour or deviant activities from teens or younger adolescents. However, because the messaging is ambiguous, it's possible teens and younger adolescents could interpret them that way.
